Features

A high percentage of lab and production workers spend a majority of their day standing on their feet to accomplish their work without the benefit of a chair. This leads to fatigue and health and safety concerns that are avoidable by using a small, compact perch stool like our FIN. Even an occasional 5-10 minutes of respite throughout a work shift helps the employee stay fresher, productive and more satisfied at their job.

- Stylish and comfortable resting stool for workers who stand a good portion of the day and move often and need brief periods of rest
- Rotating seat cushion moves 11 degrees each direction as you work
- Product design award winner
- Lightweight for ease of moving
- Intended for use with higher bench surfaces
